Publisher's Managers Complete Fight to Win Erie County Delegates.

(By United News.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—William R. Hearst's aspirations to be governor will be put to a preliminary test in the New York primary elections Tuesday.

Chief interest in the primary centers in the fight of William J. Connelly in the race of William J. Connelly.

Hearst's campaign manager, to gain control of delegates to the Democratic State Convention, at which candidates for the State ticket and for United States Senator and judicial offices will be nominated.

Reynolds, after a long vacation, appealed his case, but the jury's verdict was sustained. The attorney surrendered to the court of Justice last week, but Judge Clement, as a special consideration, allowed him continued freedom on bail in order to settle one or two civil issues that had pending.

He returned then advised Reynolds if he had completed his tasks to go to the penitentiary by himself to save himself the embarrassment of making the journey shackled.

Reynolds said good-bye to his family and went to Richmond. Arriving at the penitentiary, however, he was refused admittance, it is said by Superintendent Youell, because he carried no identification papers and a record of the sentence imposed on him. He begged to be allowed to remain and start his term, but it was held that such a procedure would be irregular.

Reynolds therefore returned home and arrived in Stuart yesterday, asking as a favor to be allowed to go to jail there to await the arrival of a penitentiary guard. He was locked up and will have to go to Richmond with other men.

Richmond War Veterans, at Convention, Hear Major General Harries.

(By Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, GA., Sept. 18.—The country has specialized in killing its enemies, but that I mean that over 50 per cent of the men killed in the last war were killed unnecessarily because they didn't know how to fight.

This was the statement made today by Major-General George H. Harries, commander in chief of the Military Order of the World War, which is holding its convention at the American Hotel.

"We need adequate national defense," he continued, "and I am opposed to the thoughtless follies and propaganda of those who insist upon destroying and crippling our army and navy. It is a known fact that those persons who are trying so hard to do that crippling have never risked their own lives in battle."

The general advocated compulsory training.

Some of the first delegations to arrive were New Orleans, San Francisco, St. Louis, Chicago and Richmond, Va.

AIRPLANE SMASHED; OCCUPANTS UNHURT

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., Sept. 18.—When W. H. Stratley, aviation machinist's mate, attempted to make a landing at the Naval Air Station yesterday in a high wind, the government suffered loss for Stratley, nor his passenger, a lady, were injured, and the plane, which was wrecked, was Stratley's personal property.

The plane was virtually destroyed. The wings were broken, the propeller was smashed, and the nose of the fuselage buried itself in the made ground in the landing field. The escape of pilot and his fair passenger is considered miraculous.

Did the mishap startle the lady? It did not!

"Why, I thought that was the way planes always landed," she said, when she emerged from the debris.

Stratley, who is stationed at the base, has owned the plane for about three months and has made many flights in it.
